

6 Reasons To Tint Your Vehicle Windows Health, Safety, Privacy, Preservation, Prevention, Protection

There are many reasons to tint your car from protecting against health concerns, safety and privacy reasons, as well as preserving your investment in your car. Listed below are some of the top reasons that people tint their cars.

Enhanced Privacy

Automotive window tinting protects your privacy and the contents within a car or truck. What a thief can't see, said thief won't steal.

Accident Protection

In case of an auto accident, window tinting can help shattered glass hold together, protecting the occupants of your car or truck.

Protect Your Skin

Harmful UV rays from the hot Florida sun can cause skin cancer. Tinting your car or truck windows can block 99% of these damaging rays from passing through to the interior of your automobile.

Prevent Cracking and Fading

Florida's hot summer sun produces harmful UV rays and heat that will cause your car or truck upholstery to crack and fade. Automotive window tint is sunscreen for your car. You wouldn't lay out on the beach without sunscreen. Protect your car or truck interior with a high quality automotive window tint.

Safer Driving

Window tinting reduces dangerous glare from the hot Florida sun, if you travel north it protects from the glare off of snow, at night window tinting protects you from other headlights, helping you to continuously drive safely.

Avoid Overheating

Here in Florida our summers are hot. Very hot. Your car's interior can be 60% cooler during those hot summer days with proper automotive window tinting.
